

Humorous motivational speakers, business humor experts, corporate comedians, and corgi owners!

Meet The "O" Team!

Tim and Kris O'Shea have been making audiences laugh for almost two decades. Yes, they are married. And the battle-of-sexes-balance adds a third dimension to every line and laugh they deliver.

Tim and Kris O'Shea are both familiar with the fast pace of the working world. They are former corporate professionals in sales, training, and HR. But instead of going home after work, they went to their second job at night, performing in theaters and nightclubs as writers and comedians.

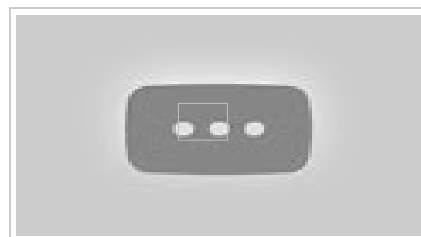

Tim and Kris each trained with The Second City theater company at their satellite division in Denver, Colorado. They are accomplished improvisers, stand-ups and comedic actors, and have shared the stage with cast members from Whose Line Is It Anyway and Saturday Night Live.

Combining their backgrounds as humor writers and business professionals, The O'Sheas are now internationally recognized corporate keynote speakers. They present their unique blend of business humor programs for such organizations as Nordstrom, Hewlett-Packard, Coors, State Farm, and Kaiser Permanente. The O'Sheas were recently listed among the Top 5 Entertainment Keynote Speakers by Speakers Platform and featured in the "Top 25 Hot Speakers" by the National Speakers Association.
