

Jake Greene creates concepts and content for television networks, digital platforms, large brands, and online influencers. He also speaks regularly to both business groups and government groups about business culture, pop culture, generations, and innovation.

His recent web comedy, MILLENNIAL PARENTS, was featured in press all over the world, including USA TODAY, BuzzFeed, The Huffington Post, and HLN.

Jake was born and raised in Minneapolis, attended Stanford University, spent the rest of his twenties in Nashville, and now lives in Los Angeles.

To book Jake Greene call Executive Speakers Bureau 901-754-9404.

Testimonials

“Jake Greene’s presentation ... was not only informative but also entertained our members during our AACE summer conference. He was truly the hit of our conference. I would highly recommend him as a keynote speaker for any event.”-

”

- Alabama Association of Colleges and Employers.

“Here are just a few of the comments Jake received: “Jake is crazy. He talks like an episode of Family Guy.” “Fun and engaging and offered lots of advice that I will use.” “Very informative and funny.” “Best speaker I’ve experienced as a Ford Scholar.” ”

- The Ford Family Foundation.

Jake Greene

Speech Topics

- Innovation
- Generations
- Creativity
- Communications
- Coaching
- Change

