

Dan Clark is an authority on human potential. The lessons Dan has learned from his own life experience are the foundation of his international reputation as a speaker of value and integrity. With humor, sensitivity and candor, he outlines the principles that supported him through the process of change, a process that he now understands is the process of growth. Dan Clark learned these steps the hard way.

An award-winning athlete well on his way to fulfilling his life dream of playing professional football, he sustained a paralyzing injury from which he was told there was no hope of recovery. Recover he did, but only after two years of agonizing self-examination during which he improvised his own therapy. Through personal example, Dan helps people sift through the rubble of faltering or broken dreams and create a new vision. Most of all, he challenges us to live our lives fully and to have no regrets.

As a corporate CEO of a retail business, Dan Clark experienced leadership first hand. He draws upon the stories of famous people, people he's interviewed, along with his own, to illustrate how attitudes and commitment can transform lives, and ultimately impact the destiny of an organization.

Business audiences love Dan because he is witty, intelligent, entertaining, and refreshing. In swiftly-paced, power-packed presentations, Dan Clark shares the secrets of improving customer service, building long-lasting sales. Testimonials

“I was privileged to work as a National Football League referee for 31 years, was honored to officiate in several Super Bowls, served in California as a high school Principal and District Superintendent, and was elected in 1987 as president of the National Speakers Association. I have watched professional athletes, outstanding educators, and Hall of Fame speakers perform at the highest levels, and my friend and colleague Dan Clark is one of the very best I’ve ever seen. He is the consummate gentleman, a fierce competitor who refuses to lose, a master teacher, polished professional, and an experienced expert in building winning teams. Guaranteed, Dan will fire up and unify your people to win your biggest games - in sports, in business, in life!”

“Dan knocked it out of the park with a long standing ovation! As an international organization that has produced countless conventions over the years, who has hired many of the biggest name speakers in the world, Dan took our meetings to a new level as I received more positive comments about his speech than any other guest speaker we have ever had. It was right on the money. Dan played a huge part in making this a very successful event and we will definitely use him again in our most important meetings!”
