

Jeremy Park is a corporate executive and philanthropist, an author of two books and a weekly newspaper column, a contributor to Forbes, producer and host of television, radio shows and a podcast, along with a sought after speaker for transforming organizations and individuals into catalysts for their community. Jeremy is currently the CEO of cityCURRENT, a privately-funded philanthropic catalyst comprised of more than 85 businesses, including some of the world's largest employers, like FedEx, AutoZone, Cummins Inc., Humana, Republic Services, Expedient, Flex, and Smith & Nephew, that host more than 150 events each year, along with an array of positive-oriented media and philanthropic initiatives to enrich and impact the community.

Park is the original architect who transformed cityCURRENT, formerly known as the Lipscomb Pitts Breakfast Club, from a small, simple inward-focused business networking group, hosting only a handful of events, into a powerful team of businesses now outward-focused on making a difference and recognized internationally as an innovator in corporate philanthropy, social entrepreneurialism, and collective impact.

Park is the author of the "Giving Back" column, which he launched in 2010 and is published each Sunday in The Commercial Appeal.

He is author of the books, Giving Back with Purpose: fueling growth through community involvement, released by Main Street Books in December 2013; and Giving for Growth: Achieving Success Through Giving Back, released by Main Street Books in November 2015. Proceeds from both books benefit youth literacy programs in the Mid-South.

Park executive produces and hosts the cityCURRENT Radio Show, which airs each Sunday from 7-8 AM across the four radio stations on the Cumulus ...

Testimonials

“Mr. Jeremy C. Park, a phenomenal keynote speaker and also a genuine G.E.N.T.S.! One of the Ladies of D.I.V.A.A.S. did not have a dance partner for the Waltz. Mr. Park walked up to me and asked if she had a partner. I said no. He turned and walked on the dance floor and she taught him the dance while they were dancing, Simply Amazing! You would have thought he practiced with them. This was Character at its Best! You can't fake something like this. It has to come from the heart! A man who Genuinely loves to help, motivate and care! You rock Jeremy C. Park.”
