

Bridging his distinguished career from music icons to the visionary business leaders of our time, Rhythm of Success founder Freddie Ravel has emerged as a global force for transforming personal and professional growth through the performance, science and communicative powers of music.

Utterly captivated by music since age five, the award-winning composer, pianist and educator began performing worldwide with Brazilian master Sergio Mendes by the age of 23. Shortly thereafter, Universal Music released his three chart-topping solo albums, including the #1 hit in America, Sunny Side Up.

Driven by his passion for applying harmonious music creation to empowering life skills, Ravel's concert appearances, delivered either in English and Spanish, span three decades across six continents. Officially named the "Keynote Maestro" by the city of Los Angeles, Ravel has delighted and mesmerized audiences from the heart of the Amazon to the boardrooms of corporate America while simultaneously inspiring leaders such as India's former prime minister Rajiv Gandhi and the King of Thailand. To date, Ravel has presented his music and message to 73 countries and counting.

His #1 hits and collaborations include producing, recording and composing with such diverse luminaries as Earth, Wind & Fire, Madonna, Prince, Yo-Yo Ma, India.Arie, Quincy Jones, the Boston Pops and rock legend Carlos Santana. Ravel also co-wrote and co-produced the title track of the Al Jarreau/George Benson release Givin' It Up, which won two Grammy Awards.

In 1999, Ravel developed a breakthrough system that applies music principles to best business practices called "The Rhythm of Success." The unique peak performance methodology enhances leadership, collaboration and time...
