

For the past decade, Matt has worked in various leadership roles at a Fortune 50 company in areas as diverse as marketing, employee retention, and management. As a result of this expertise, Matt has crafted multiple keynote presentations to address some of the most pressing issues today's businesses face.

And if that's where things stopped, Matt might be mistaken for just another keynote speaker in a world that's full of keynote speakers. However, Matt also comes from a line of entertainers - his father and brother both worked for years as professional stand-up comedians - and humor runs in his blood. Which is why Matt has also managed to craft some of the most entertaining keynote addresses you're ever going to hear.

The results are Stop Acting Your Age! An Entertaining Keynote to Help You Avoid Generational Warfare and You're Not an Acronym - A Practical Approach To Leadership. Matt has quickly become a must-have for any event where audiences want to learn something new while laughing at the same time. You'll soon learn why one of Matt's clients has called him "both the funniest and most informative speaker I have ever heard in my life."
