

Mark Pattison is a former NFL player, now climbing the Seven Summits. He has successfully climbed 4 of the 7 highest peaks and will become the first NFL player to ever do so once accomplished. He also attempted his 5th summit in May 2017 on Denali but was pushed back by minus 40-60 degree temperatures at the summit so will need to come back to conquer the highest mountain in North America. Mark has also started several multi-million dollar businesses including one venture backed gaming company which was acquired.

Mark has developed his own Seven Summits of Success module based on his experience and the wisdom gained from the gridiron, business, and from the mountaintops of the world's tallest mountains. His plan will help and inspire those that hear him speak to achieve greatness on the field, in business, and while climbing some of the world's most dangerous and difficult mountains - or anywhere else they find themselves. The acronym SUMMITS, represents the roadmap to accomplishment in getting things done: Seed, Unleash, Move, Measure, Improve, Traverse, Summit!! Listen to Mark as he intertwines stories from football, business and mountaineering to learn the secrets of succeeding at each level. Truly transformational!

A percentage of proceeds from all of Mark's speaking engagements goes to his philanthropic work with Waterboys.org.
