

Eileen McDargh is founder and CEO of the consulting firm, The Resiliency Group (a division of McDargh Communications). Organizations like Cisco, Novartis, Oracle, and Procter & Gamble hire her firm to teach them ways of building resilient leadership teams and workplaces.

Since 1980, she has helped organizations and individuals transform the life of their business and the business of their life through conversations that matter and connections that count.

Her programs are content rich, interactive, provocative and playful-even downright hilarious. She draws upon practical business know-how, life's experiences and years of consulting to major national and international organizations that have ranged from global pharmaceuticals to the US Armed Forces, from health care associations to religious institutions. Global Gurus International, a British-based provider of resources for leadership, communication and sales training, also ranked Eileen in the World's Top 30 Communication Professionals for several years following a global survey of 22,000 business professionals.

Eileen is energy without hype. A Connector who joins head and heart to create action. Instead of giving lectures Eileen teaches and tells stories. She speaks with humility and humor in place of pride and pretense.

Along with her work as an organizational resiliency consultant, Eileen speaks and writes about resiliency. As a platform speaker, she has given thousands of keynotes for organizations and associations in dozens of fields, including aerospace, education, finance, healthcare, hospitality, manufacturing, pharmaceuticals, public agencies, real estate, retail, technology, utilities, and women's leadership.

Testimonials

I wanted to personally thank you for the speech you gave at the Pierre Claeysens Veteran's Foundation's 23rd Annual Military Ball. It was incredible to have the opportunity to listen to the touching story about your mom. You gave a wonderful presentation of her life as a WASP that was both inspiring and a praising moment for all women who serve in the military. Thank you for your dedication to sharing your cause and expanding your audience because your message is important. I am extremely thankful to have had the opportunity to hear you speak. Again, thank you for an incredible experience.

Eileen McDargh came to our back to school faculty meeting and she is amazing. For almost three-hours, she kept us focused and engaged on our desire to create a cohesive vision for 2020. Not only is her content on being resilient in the face of change readily usable, but her infectious, feel-good energy is stunning. She brought the best out in the group as we discussed how to embrace change to improve our School of Nursing relationships and adopt nursing curriculum changes. There was a clear movement in building our team in positive way. All attendees left with energy flowing and a commitment to truly "live" a resilient approach for ongoing improvement with commitment, passion and fun! Highly recommend—your team will learn pearls of wisdom they won't soon forget and you'll see them practicing those pearls immediately! ☐
